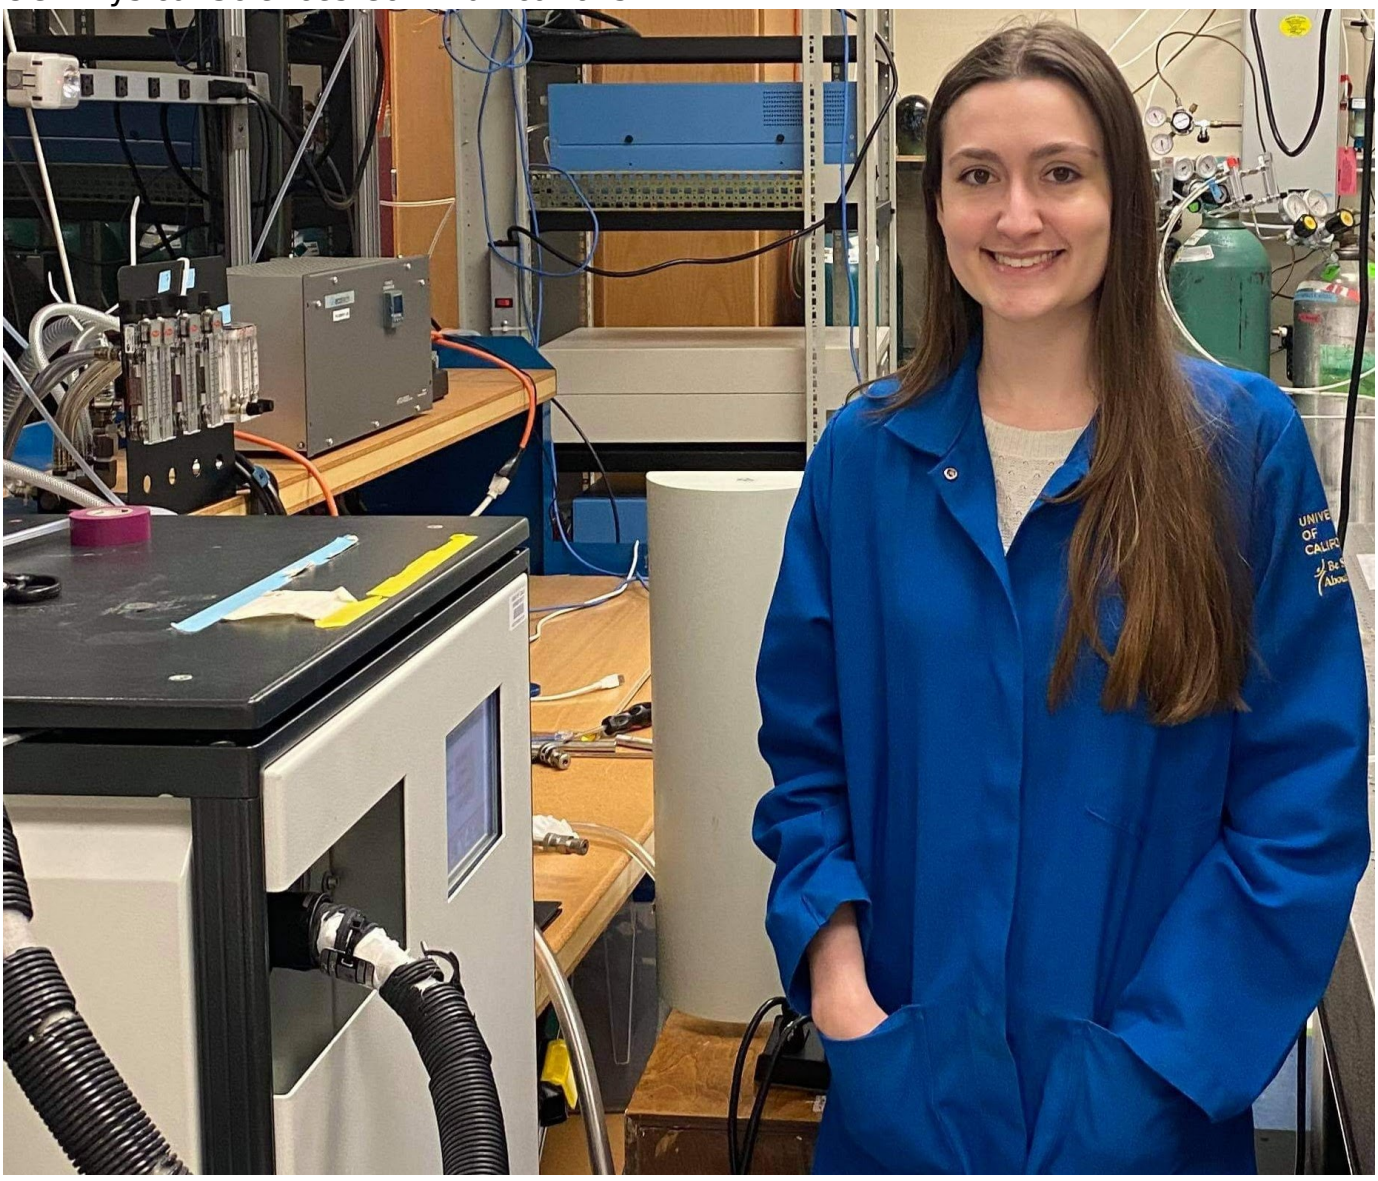
Ph.D. student Natalie Smith answers our questions for #EarthDay2021

Ph.D. student Natalie Smith answers questions about her aerosol research.
Friday, April 30, 2021
UCI Physical Sciences Communications



Smith stands in her lab at UCI, where she investigates how the physical properties of aerosols affects certain atmospheric properties.

Picture Credit:

Natalie Smith

Natalie Smith, a Ph.D. student in the UCI Department of Chemistry, where she works with Professor Sergey Nizkorodov, answers our questions about her aerosol research.

News Briefs
Chemistry
Climate Change
The Future of Energy and the Environment
View PDF