Ph.D. student Annie Rohrbacher answers our questions for #EarthDay2021

Chemistry Ph.D. student answers questions about her research on the chemical transformation of pesticides.
Friday, April 23, 2021
UCI Physical Sciences Communications

Annie Rohrbacher shines a light on a slide, showing off a technique for investigating how chemicals can transform over time.

Picture Credit:
Lucas Joel

For Earth Day 2021, for a social media takeover, the Physical Sciences Office of Communications sat down with Annie Rohrbacher, who's a Ph.D. candidate in the lab of Professor Barbara-Finlayson Pitts, to ask her a few questions about her research into the chemical transformation of pesticides.

News Briefs
Chemistry
The Future of Energy and the Environment
Climate Change
View PDF